

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLEIFFE

How I managed some style tendencies in a smart suit.

The other morning I had occasion to walk down the avenue at an hour when many of the best dressed women promenade the famous thoroughfare. Ruth Bayless accompanied me, and as she is studying costume design at one of the well known schools, she was just as interested in noting new style ideas as I was.

As we approached the entrance to one of the exclusive shops, Ruth suddenly said:

"That's the sort of suit I'd like to have if I were rich."

"Which do you mean?" I asked, for just at that moment two particularly well dressed women were greeting each other in the doorway of the shop.

"I mean the one with the dashing waistcoat," answered Ruth, as we skirted our pace so we might take in some of the fashion features of these models.

"Why, Ruth?" I replied. "You must have changed your ideas of dress, for that's quite an elaborate creation."

"Oh, no!" she replied with a provoking smile. "I said I should like it if I were rich."

"Well, what's the idea?" I questioned.

"If I were rich," said Ruth, "I should have innumerable dresses, and not have to buy plain tailored models that last more than one season and are always in good taste."

"Ho! Ho!" I said. "Then you're finding that 'Art is long' in bringing you the fortune you desire."

"Yes, it is," said Ruth, "and on a lovely morning like this one might be forgiven for longing for clothes that would elevate her spirit, and enhance the beauty of her appearance. What sort of material is that suit made of?"

"It is a cashmere duvetyn which has a lovely surface," I answered.

"That shade of navy is also very good, I think," was Ruth's next remark.

"It is, and the strappings of black eoutache enrich it," I remarked.

"But its the lovely waistcoat that appeals to me most. Do you think it's real moleskin?" asked Ruth.

"Certainly, that's easily recognizable," I answered.

"Then is that silver embroidery worked on the fur?" questioned Ruth, with a note of scepticism in her voice.

KILLED IN GUN FIGHT

SCOTTSBORO, Ala., Sept. 27.—In a gun-fight at a moonshine still, for which they were searching near here today, Deputy Sheriff Edward Kirby was killed, Deputy Jerde Owens probably fatally wounded, while Effie Talley, a negro, alleged operator of the plant, was shot through the head and shoulder with buckshot.

Waste products get into the blood mainly through the intestines, but there are other sources—for instance, the glands. Some glands secrete digestive juices, while others excrete waste products. If they fail to properly function, waste products accumulate.

As a result, nature strives to cast off the poisons. It may be through the skin in the form of some skin disorder, but it is not infrequent for it to settle in the muscles and joints and cause rheumatism.

For over 50 years, thousands and thousands of men and women have relied on S. S. S. to clear their blood.

How to Keep Your Blood Pure and Wholesome

It is the Person With Rich, Red, Normal Blood—The Person of Health and Energy—That Meets With Business and Social Success.

A Lowered Vitality Is Usually Due to Waste Products in the Blood.

When your blood is impoverished and loaded with waste products, you don't get the full strength out of your food, and as a consequence, you become weak, nervous, and easily upset.

Waste products get into the blood mainly through the intestines, but there are other sources—for instance, the glands. Some glands secrete digestive juices, while others excrete waste products. If they fail to properly function, waste products accumulate.

Vernon's Policy of Lower Price Clothes Appeals Particularly to the Family Man —who wishes to dress smartly without being overcharged!

The old saying is "two can live as cheaply as one," but can they? It doesn't take a William J. Burns detective though to discover that after the family grows to three or four or five, they can't live as cheaply as one.

Now this is not an argument against matrimony, Great Caesars, No! But it is an attempt to show that the family man needs to use special care in the things he buys, simply because he has more folks to buy for than the single man.

No matter, if he's got money to burn, the family man can well afford to dodge the high priced clothing stores. With the money he saves in his clothes purchases at Vernon's, he can invest in building and loan stock, life insurance, in fact anything he wishes for the betterment of his family.

That's why we say, Vernon's Policy of asking lower prices for quality clothes, depending upon increased volume of business for profits, should appeal particularly to the man of family.

Throughout this section, men are coming to know of this sound new business policy of Vernon's.

Let us demonstrate.
